Didsbury Loses Another Fine Old Resident

Didsbury is again mourning the passing of one of her best and finest old residents in the person of Mr. W. F. Sick who had been ill for about three weeks and had been confined to the Didsbury General Hospital under the care of Dr. W. G. Evans, a short time before his death. He was aged 76 years and was born in Denmark coming to the U. S. when about 23 years of age. After residing at Duluth, Minn., where he was in the dairy business for some years, he decided to move with his family to Alberta about 23 years ago, first settling in the Olds district where he lived for three years before buying a farm and settling in the Burnside district, about 18 miles east of Didsbury. About 12 years ago he gave up farming and bought a home in east Didsbury where he had resided ever since.

Mr. Sick was town constable for a number of years, holding the position to his credit almost until his death. He was one of the best hearted and finest living men that it has been the privilege of this district to possess, and his fine sympathetic nature caused him to give a helping hand wherever such help was needed; although he was also one of those who, in numberless instances, did not always believe in letting the left hand know what the right hand was doing in giving assistance when needed. His religious feelings were fairly broad and he believed in following out his Master's teaching as closely as his human nature would allow. He had known many great sorrows and trials but with all he kept his sunny disposition and there is not a man, woman or child in the district but will miss and mourn the passing of a fine, sturdy character.

He was a great believer in Masonry, being a member of King Hiram Lodge, (of which lodge he became a member in 1915), Joseph Stauffer Chapter, and St. Hilda's Chapter of the O. E. S. He held minor offices in King Hiram and Joseph Stauffer Chapter and was Worthy Patron of the Eastern Star; he was also a member of Didsbury Lodge of the I. O. O. F. and of the Rebeccas.

His wife predeceased him, having been suddenly killed in an accident in July 1918. One son, Ellis, and two daughters, Dora and Anna, also died here a few years ago, all three dying in one year. He leaves to mourn his loss three sons, John at Burnside, Lawrence of Duluth, Minn., Fred of Fergus Falls, Minn., and Carl of Innisfail, Alta.

Laid To Rest At Didsbury

The funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon and the attendance was the largest ever held in Didsbury, the Opera House, which was used for the occasion, being filled to the doors.

Rev. W. J. McNutt, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of which deceased was a member, assisted by Rev. W. Dengis and Rev. J. E. Bender of the Evangelical church, and Rev. H. Honnuth of the Mennonite church, conducted the religious ceremonies. A large choir composed of singers from the Presbyterian and Evangelical churches, under the leadership of Bro. J. Boorman, led the singing, while Miss Vera Hehn sang the solo "Some Day He Will Make It Plain to Me" very acceptably.

After the services in the Opera House the Masonic Order took charge of the proceedings, Wor. Bro. J. L. Clarke assisted by his Wardens, officers and a very large number of brethren from the local Masonic lodges, Innisfail, Olds and Carstairs, conducted the fine Masonic burial services at the graveside by special request of the deceased. The members of Didsbury Lodge I. O. O. F. and the Rebecca Lodge also attended the services at the cemetery. The pall bearers were composed of Past Masters of the Didsbury and Olds Masonic Lodges, being W. Bro. Dr. Hartmann, Rt. Wor. Bro. J. Duff, W. Bro. Grant of Olds, V. Wor. Bro. A. G. Studer, Rt. Wor. Bro. A. Brusso, and Wor. Bro. G. Liesemer.

Bro. Walter Durrer, funeral director, had charge of the public proceedings and as usual under his management everything was conducted in a very dignified and impressive manner considering the large number of people attending and the solemnity of the occasion. Thus passed the "Grand Old Man" of Didsbury whose last words were "All is well".

Natural Resources And The War Debt

The problem of how to pay off Canada's great war debt of two billions of dollars is one of such tremendous importance to every Canadian that it demands, and has for some time demanded, unremitting serious consideration by all Governments, institutions, corporations and societies having the welfare of the Dominion and its people at heart. It is not the Federal Government alone which should concern over the problem, but each Provincial and municipal governing body as well, because so long as the dead weight of our war debt rests on this country, with the resultant necessity of imposing heavy Federal taxes, all other Governments are going to find themselves in financial difficulties.

Amazing it is, therefore, to find so little serious thought given and practical action taken, to find a solution of the problem. Because of its very magnitude and enormous difficulty the Federal Government and Parliament appear to be reluctant to touch it, with the result that while Great Britain and the United States are steadily and even rapidly paying off their war debts, Canada is marking time, and each succeeding year sees the Dominion no better off and with no sign of any radical lessening of the taxation burden in the immediate future. Yet on all sides the statement is made that it is this heavy taxation which is throttling business and hampering industry and general national development.

Governments and people recognize the situation, but all seem loth to attempt a remedy. On the one hand people are demanding a lowering of taxation. Some want the tariff further reduced; others point out that Canada's high income tax as compared with the United States schedules is driving capital out of the channels of productive industry into the absolutely safe but less profitable form of investment in Government Bonds; the general public are insistent that postage rates be reduced to the pre-war figure and freight rates lowered.

But how, asks the Government, can the revenue from customs be further reduced, less collected in income taxes, one-third cut off the postage rates, and the deficit on the Canadian National railways increased through lower freight rates, and at the same time enable the Finance Minister to pay interest charges on the public debt and maintain the necessary public services not to mention making a start at paying off the principal sum of the war debt?

There is the problem. Some argue that a reduction in tariff, freight and postal rates would so stimulate business that increased importations, railway traffic and postal transactions would not only offset any loss of revenue through lower rates, but would actually lead to increase in revenue because of the larger volume of business handled. This, however, is a moot question, and customs, postal and railway experts apparently hold the contrary view, and say that increased volume of business would not make up for the loss sustained through lower rates and certainly would not provide any increase in net revenue.

If present rates of taxation cannot be lowered and are absolutely necessary to maintain public services and meet the interest charges on the national debt, it is even more certain that no additional taxation can be imposed in order to pay off some portion of the principal sum of that debt each year.

So it would appear that Canada had reached a condition of stalemate. Such a condition means stagnation, an end to all progress, and when a nation, like the individual, fails to make progress and grow, it starts to slip backward. There is no such thing as standing still in the life of a nation. It is either going forward or slipping backward.

It is impossible to contemplate a young nation of intelligent, vigorous people like Canada, with its enormous wealth of natural resources and God-given opportunities, going backward. On the contrary it should be leaping forward. At the moment, however, it is tied hand and foot. Some steps must be taken to cut the knots.

If renewed life cannot be put into the industrial, commercial and productive enterprises of Canada through a lowering of taxation in the form of customs tariffs, freight rates, postal rates, etc., and if we cannot lift the dead weight of the war debt by carrying even more taxation for a period, then Governments must devise some other measures.

It is the duty of all citizens to assist Governments in their task, and to offer constructive criticism and suggestions in regard to the proper solution of national problems. The writer of this article, therefore, suggests that, all other methods having proved ineffective to solve our debt and taxation problems, Federal and Provincial Governments should unite their forces and inaugurate an energetic nation-wide work of development of the natural resources of Canada, thus providing an enormous field for employment of labor, traffic for our railways, business for our industries and commercial houses, and profitable utilization of available capital.

Development for use of Canada's natural resources is the instrument which unquestionably will cut the knots which hamper the Dominion's progress, and the production of wealth through such development is not only the surest, but apparently the only way in which we can ever hope to pay off our war debt.

An Interesting Exhibit

Workroom of James Watt May Be Transferred to London Museum
The garret in Heathfield Hall, Handsworth, England, in which James Watt, the man who did so much to develop the steam engine, conducted his experiments, may find its way to South Kensington Museum. Negotiations are now proceeding to this end.

Watt first came to Birmingham about 1768. He died in 1819. The room in which he worked was locked after his death, and was not opened for many years. His tools, benches, even the leather apron in which he worked, and which hangs in the same spot in which he put it, have been undisturbed.

The estate is being developed by a building syndicate, and if the negotiations are successful the room will be transferred bodily to London.

How Vancouver Grows

The population of Greater Vancouver in 1911, as reported in the government census of that date, was 100,401. The population this year, as reported in the directory recently published, is 247,127.

Many children die from the assaults of worms, and the first care of mothers should be to see that their infants are free from these pests. A vermifuge that can be depended on is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only expel worms from the system, but act as a health-giving medicine and a remedy for many of the ailments that beset infants, enfeebling them and endangering their lives.

Cheese An All-Round Food

But It Is Sometimes Misunderstood Through Lack of Knowledge

Cheese is probably the oldest manufactured food we have. It is mentioned several times in the Bible and it is certain that the art of making it was known long before the birth of Christ. While it is one of the oldest foods, it is also one of the most misunderstood, even though there are many people who think they know all about cheese. People believe a great many foolish things about cheese, one of them being that it does not agree with them; that it is hard to digest. Government tests and hundreds of doctors and dietitians have proved time and again that this is not the case. Cheese should be eaten with other foods, the same as you eat meat, for it is a perfect alternate for meat; the food properties are almost the same.

Eat plenty of cheese but eat it as you would any other highly nourishing food. Here is a recipe that has been tried and found very good.

Baked Cheese Omelet.—1 cup stale bread crumbs; 1 teaspoon baking soda; 2 eggs beaten light; 1 cup grated Kraft Canadian cheese; 1 pint milk; 1 teaspoon hot water; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon butter. Soak bread crumbs in milk to which has been added soda dissolved in hot water. Add eggs, salt, dash cayenne, grated cheese and melted butter. Turn into greased baking dish and place in very hot oven. Serve immediately when it is puffed and golden brown.

Conquers Asthma. To be relieved from the terrible suffocating due to asthma is a great thing, but to be safeguarded for the future is even greater. Not only does Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy bring prompt relief, but it introduces a new era of life for the afflicted. Systematic inhaling of smoke or fumes from the remedy prevents re-attacks and often effects a permanent cure.

Russia's Oil Fields Not Being Developed

Riches of Baku Going to Waste Under Soviet Rule

No part of Russia seems to possess more attractions for the capitalists and business man than the great Baku oil fields on the Caspian Sea. If properly developed these wells are capable of producing sufficient gasoline, kerosene, lubricating oil, vaseline and by-products to keep the entire world supplied, it is said. But in their present state the fields present a melancholy picture. Only a small percentage of them are in actual operation. The great wooden derricks and the pumps, compressors and drills on the remaining wells are fast falling into decay. It is as if a great storm had suddenly visited a primeval forest, stripping the trees of their limbs and roots, and leaving ruin and desolation in its wake.

The stagnation is due to Soviet Russia's lack of capital, modern machinery and technical skill to develop the oil fields, which were taken over by the state soon after the 1918 revolution.

High Altitude Flavors Tea

Elevation at Which Plant is Grown Determines Quality

"Let me have a pot of orange pekoe tea." How often we hear this expression in restaurants and tearooms. Yet, if you asked, "What is orange pekoe?" the answer would invariably be, "I don't know, but I do know it is supposed to be good tea." Orange pekoe is simply the name of the leaf and the distinguishing mark of the size of the leaf. You may have good, bad or indifferent orange pekoe tea. Goodness of the leaf is judged by the flavor, which depends upon two things, the elevation at which the plant is grown and the care exercised in the manufacture of the tea. The higher the elevation of the tea garden the richer the leaf is in essential oil, which constitutes its flavor.

Collected Walking Sticks

There is some speculation as to what Queen Alexandra will do with a collection of the late King Edward's walking canes, when she returns to Marlborough House. A large rack contains the favorite canes used by the King, which typify the story of the walking stick in the last century. He was rarely seen without one, and always brought back a few from his many visits abroad.

Was Troubled With Her Heart and Nerves For Years

Mrs. James Rutledge, Nappan Station, N. S., writes:—"I think it my duty to tell you about what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me."

For years I was troubled with my heart and nerves, and was so bad, at times, I would faint away and fall right down where I was sitting or standing, and after one of these attacks I would sometimes be in bed for weeks at a time and feeling that life was not worth living.

I finally started the use of

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

and after using the first box I saw I was getting relief, and after using them for a short time I found that they did for me what no other remedy had ever done."

Milburn's H. & N. Pills are for sale at all druggists and dealers; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CANADIANS WIN IN ELECTIONS IN MOTHER COUNTRY

London.—A turn-over in the British elections notable from the Canadian point of view is the return to parliament of Sir Hamar Greenwood, formerly of Whitby, Ontario, and perhaps the best known Canadian in British politics.

He was elected in East Walthamstow, in a three cornered fight, by a majority of 3,066 over his runner-up, J. G. Dale, Labor. Sir Hamar was defeated in 1922 and 1923 by a Unionist candidate in three cornered fights when he ran on a Liberal ticket. He entered the present contest as an "anti-Socialist and constitutionalist" and was not opposed by a Conservative.

A. W. Haycock, former Canadian, and Labor member for Salford West, was defeated by the Conservative candidate, F. W. Astbury. Mr. Haycock was in Canada when the election date was set. He is the son of J. L. Haycock, who was prominent a generation ago as Ontario's lone "patron of industry."

Lieut.-Col. A. MacDonnell, who redeemed the Dartford division of Kent to the Conservative column, was a former resident of Vancouver, B.C., his vote totalling 20,108 against 19,253 for the former Labor member for that constituency, J. E. Mills.

Col. W. Grant Morden, well known Canadian, retained his seat for the Brantford and Chiswick division of Middlesex with a slightly reduced majority over his nearest opponent, a Labor man.

Will Revise Civil Service Salaries

Those Receiving $2,400 Or Less Expect Larger Amounts

Ottawa.—All civil service salaries of $2,400 and less, a year ago, are to undergo revision. Exception is being made of course to postal and customs and excise salaries of $2,400 and under which have been revised during the summer.

The civil service commission of Ottawa, whose members constitute the main body of those affected by the revision, asks for salary increases for all classes, although it is unlikely that their request will be so broadly met.

Authority for this salary revision was given by order-in-council before the postal and customs revision. The reason for the $2,400 limit was said to be the fact that the bonus stopped at the $2,400 mark and revision was supposed to atone for the bonus which in turn, had originally been designed to offset the abnormal cost of living.

Women Candidates Elected

London.—Women fared rather badly in the constituencies making their declarations on election night in Great Britain. To be sure, the "Invincible" Lady Astor added another victory to her laurels as candidate for the Sutton division of Plymouth, which she has represented in several successive parliaments. In the early returns Miss E. Wilkenson, the Labor candidate for Middlesborough East, was the only woman among the elected to keep Lady Astor company.

Stamp Out Bootlegging

Ottawa.—The Citizen intimates that part of the Ontario Government's scheme for stamping out bootlegging in view of the favorable prohibition vote, will involve the placing of guards on the interprovincial bridges between here and Hull, Que., who would operate similar to customs officers at border points.

Argentine Aviator Abandons Flight

Tokio.—The Argentine aviator, Zanni, who has reached Japan after starting from Amsterdam on an eastward flight around the world, has decided to abandon his flight here for the present, because of difficulty in obtaining ships to guard his intended flight to Alaska.

Willard's Farm Sold For $151,650

Topeka, Kas.—Jess Willard's 674-acre farm near here was sold at a public auction by H. P. Hodgins, of Topeka, for $151,650. The former heavyweight boxing champion left the farm two years ago, establishing his home in California.

Miss Margaret Bondfield Suffers Political Defeat

London.—Miss Margaret Bondfield, parliamentary secretary for labor, was defeated for Northampton. Miss Bondfield, whose record in parliament is considered noteworthy, was defeated by less than a thousand votes by her Conservative opponent, Sir Arthur Holland. The pollings: Sir Arthur Holland, Conservative, 15,970; Miss Bondfield, Labor, 15,023; J. Manfield, Liberal, 9,419. Miss Bondfield was in Canada on an immigration mission for the British Government at the time of dissolution of parliament, and hastened home a few days later.

Declares Police System Wrong

Grand Jury Finds Conditions Far From Satisfactory

Vancouver.—In a presentation to Mr. Justice Murphy who presided at the Criminal Assize Court here, the grand jury declared the whole detective system of both the Vancouver and the provincial police and the secret service branch of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to be wrong and badly in need of re-organization.

The political choice of a crown prosecutor, the report declared to be a weak link in the system of justice.

The grand jury recommends that the chief inspector of the city detective force be honorably superannuated.

Dealing with the drug traffic, the report claimed that the peddling of contraband narcotics to addicts is not on the wane or in any way becoming less.

Peter Veregin Killed

Explosion On Train Kills Doukhobor Leader and Seven Other People

Nelson, B.C.—Eight are dead and 12 are injured and confined to the Grand Forks and Nelson hospitals as a result of an explosion on board a day coach on the Kettle Valley C.P.R. train. John MacKie, member of the Provincial Legislature for Grand Forks, is dead; Peter Veregin, leader of Doukhobor colonies in Canada, is dead, as is also Harry Bishop, commercial traveller for Swift Canadian Co., of this city.

The death list in the disaster rises to eight with the reporting by the C.P.R. of two more bodies at Grand Forks, a Doukhobor young woman said to be Miss Mary Siroloeff, of Nelson, and an unidentified Hindu. The inquest at Grand Forks is in session on the bodies of John MacKie and Peter Veregin.

Not Producing Farmers

Ottawa.—Rural schools were not producing the type of citizens who desire to stay on the land, but rather they encouraged the average boy and girl to enter into professions, declared Mrs. H. M. Altken, of Boston, Ontario, at the opening session of the tenth annual convention of the Women's Institution of Eastern Ontario, here.

$5,000,000 For Relief

Appeal Is Successful

N. W. ROWELL, K.C.

counsel for the Toronto Railway Company, which has made a big "win" before the privy council in its appeal on the arbitrator's award.

Will Supervise All Banks

C. W. Tompkins of Montreal Has Been Given Wide Powers

Ottawa.—C. W. Tompkins, of Montreal, has been appointed government supervisor of banking, and has entered upon his duties. The position was created at the last session and the act came into force in October.

Under the general Bank Act shareholders' auditors are appointed from a list approved by the department, and their reports go not only to the shareholders, but regularly to the directors. They will also be sent here now to the chief inspector, who, in addition to checking them, may also make any investigation which he considers necessary. The powers conferred are rather extensive.

Mr. Tompkins is a native of New Brunswick, where he had his initial training. He afterwards went to Vancouver and for some years has been one of the executives of the Royal Bank.

Advance In Exports

Canada Sending More Butter and Salmon to Britain

Ottawa.—In the trade figures just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, notable advances in the exportation to Great Britain of Canadian butter and canned salmon are shown. During the past 12 months, 9,169,967 pounds of butter have gone to Great Britain as compared with 5,792,248 pounds during the preceding 12 months. In the 12 months ended September, canned salmon valued at $4,461,128 went to Great Britain, while during the same period last year the salmon shipments were valued at slightly more than two million dollars.

Abandon Rescue Trip

Nome, Alaska.—The cutter, Mojave, of the U.S. Coast Guard, which attempted to penetrate the Arctic ocean to rescue four men from the gasoline schooner Silver Wave, which was carried away locked in ice has turned back, according to word received here.

Baldwin Will Keep Promise

London.—"I am going to keep my promise to the Dominions," declared Stanley Baldwin, in a speech at York, "but that will be no infringement on free trade."

Preparing For Lively Session At Ottawa

Ottawa.—When Premier King returns from the west early this month, preparations will be made for summoning of parliament in January. From all indications the session will be a bitter one, especially as it may be followed by a general election in the fall. A number of highly contentious questions will be before parliament, among them the situation arising from the recent ruling of the railway commission in the Crow's Nest Pass rates case, and the government's scheme for limiting the powers of the senate.

Another Bank Merger

Reported That Molsons Bank To Be Taken Over By Bank Of Montreal

Montreal.—The last of Canada's "family" banks is to disappear in the taking over of the Molsons Bank by the Bank of Montreal, announced in an official statement here. The Molsons Bank, founded in Montreal over 70 years ago, has been in the hands of the commercial and financial family group of that name since then.

The absorption of the Molsons Bank by the Bank of Montreal is, of course, subject to ratification by shareholders of both institutions, but there will not likely be any difficulty in securing it. The acting minister of finance, Hon. J. A. Robb, has approved the transaction.

Police Exonerated For Killing Swede

R.C.M.P. Constables Released After Verdict of Coroner's Jury

Winnipeg, Man.—After deliberating ten minutes, a coroner's jury exonerated Constables J. H. Gilbert and F. G. Lepper, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, for the shooting of John Pearson, a Swedish laborer, who was killed during a running gun-battle with the police at Emerson, Man. The man had escaped from the custody of immigration authorities, after having been arrested for illegal entry into Canada. The verdict said: "He was shot and killed while resisting lawful arrest."

Fishing Vessel Burned

All Members of the Azores Crew Were Saved

Prince Rupert.—The fishing vessel Azores, commanded by Captain W. Edwards, was burned to the water's edge off the Queen Charlotte Islands, according to a wireless message received here. All of the members of the crew were saved.

The Azores was built in Vancouver. It was originally intended for use on a prospecting trip to South America, but the project was, later, abandoned.

Canadian Killed By Mexicans

New York.—C. D. Hodson, Canadian manager of the Arroya Mine of the Mazapil Copper Co., of Zacatecas, was killed by bandits who entered his home and shot him to death, according to a dispatch from Mexico City to the New York Evening World.

The dispatch adds that the United States ambassador has made the "customary representations" on behalf of Great Britain.

CONSTRUCTION OF BRANCH LINES IS GUARANTEED

Winnipeg.—The Canadian National Railways management, in co-operation with the Saskatchewan Government, has devised a plan whereby it will be possible to proceed with the construction of the Turtleford-Hafford branch line near Prince Albert, according to an announcement by Winnipeg officials of the Canadian National Railways. This branch line was included among those killed by the Senate last session.

The money to be used is commonly known as the Canadian Northern Branch Line Trust Fund, which has not been used for many years.

Sir Henry Thornton, it is stated, has authorized immediate commencement of the work, and the 21 miles are to be completed this fall. The extension will carry the line through the Midnight Lake, Birch Lake and Glaslyn districts.

An Interesting Discovery

Slender Steel Saws Found In Shoes Of Bandit Who Was Executed

Montreal.—When Giuseppe Serafini, youngest of the four executed Hochelaga Bank bandits, hanged here recently, walked to the scaffold, he carried, in the sole of his left shoe, three slender steel saws. This was brought to light when the Italian's footwear was examined after his body had been cut down. Although the origin of the saws has not yet been ascertained, it is thought that, before long, the person who passed them to the condemned man would be exposed.

Serafini was the man, who, in some unexplained manner, escaped from his death cell and reached the prison yard before being caught.

Judge Fined Himself

Hamilton Magistrate Pays $5.00 For Breaking Traffic Law

Hamilton, Ont.—The name of Frederick Jelfs on the police register confronted Magistrate George Frederick Jelfs in the police court. The offence chalked up against the name was that of cutting a corner too closely with an automobile. The magistrate looked himself in the face and told himself he was fined $5.

He explained after court that some member of his family was driving the automobile. "I've been busy fining everyone who breaks city by-laws," he said, "so there was nothing to do but fine myself."

Two Stowaways Found Dead

Montreal.—Two stowaways, one Polish and the other Czecho-Slovakian, were found dead in the coal bunkers of the liner Melita at the local port. Investigators believe the men succumbed to coal fumes.

According to papers found in their pockets, they were W. E. Kolup, aged 33, and Marie Hodner, aged 35.

Want Aerodrome Built

Rio de Janeiro.—The Jornal de Brazil suggests that the government build an aerodrome at Pernambuco with a view of attracting the United States to continue its proposed aerial mail service between Key West and Central American ports to Brazil.

Here and There

Although Alberta only became a province eighteen years ago, its population has increased fourfold, while the grain yield has increased twentyfold. The total agricultural products of Alberta in 1923 were worth $223,000,000.

The scheme for the settlement of British emigrants in Canada may assume a new aspect as a result of the presence in London, England, of the Hon. J. A. Robb, Canadian Minister of Immigration. Canada favors the movement of entire families to Canada from Great Britain, rather than that of single men.

With the approaching close of the tourist season, plans are being laid for the continuation of construction work at the Chateau Frontenac, the Canadian Pacific Railway's palatial hotel in the city of Quebec. Some of the interior decorating and the completion of rooms of the main corridor in the Chateau had to be left unfinished when the present tourist season opened, but it is expected that work on these parts of the hotel will commence very shortly. The billiard room and other rooms in the basement will also be completed as soon as possible.

Seymour thought of firing his pistol through the window in a hope of attracting attention to his plight; he even went so far as to unlumber the weapon. But he recalled that he had not the slightest idea of where the calaboose was situated, for it had not come to his notice in the course of his one crowded day in Gold. That it did not stand immediately back of the sheriff's office he was certain, and it might be on the camp's outskirts for all he knew to the contrary. It seemed the part of wisdom to reserve his ammunition; at least to give the deputy another half-hour of grace.

In his impatience to be out and going, the sergeant began to pace the floor. Already, his physical fitness was asserting itself, returning him rapidly to normal. There was a pair of bumps on the back of his head where the two put-out blows had landed, but there was no sign of a scalp wound, thanks to the protection the thick blanket had afforded. Except for the confining bars and that ice-box door, he was entirely able to be out, carrying the law where it sadly was needed.

On his fourth and fifth round of the small room, he paused before the door, seized with a commanding impulse to expend his surplus energy in beating upon it. He had seen prisoners behave in that same futile fashion in his own guard rooms and, for the sake of quiet, had put iron on them when they persisted. But there was no one in this inhospitable place to put iron on him, so he yielded to the extent of beating a tattoo on the stout planking.

To his amazement, the door gave slightly under his touch, which was no way at all for a self-respecting jail door to behave. This "giving" suggested the application of more force. Crouching, he put his shoulder to it and the heavy portal swung open. He had been "jugged" in an uncorked "jug," and there was nothing now to keep him from going where and when he listed.

He delayed just long enough to examine the fastenings which had not fastened. A heavy padlock hung securely locked in its deepest staple, but the hasp had been left outside, folded back against the door. For the first time that morning, Sergeant Scarlet smiled; more than that, he grinned. For once he was indebted to too much brandy.

Outside, under the blue sky, he took several deep breaths of vitalizing air. He had seen his own prisoners do that upon being released from confinement, but never understood the impulse as he did now. A moment was necessary to get his bearings; the jail stood on a knoll a hundred yards back from King Street.

To make tracks out of camp was his first inclination. But at once he rejected any attempt at escape. That would only start Hardley in pursuit, probably with that posse the corner's jury had authorized so superfluously. Rather, he must quiet the deputy's suspicions, even to disclosing his official identity, if necessary. Picking his path, he strode down the incline to King Street.

As he neared the Bonanza, he saw Hardley come off the porch and waddle in his direction. But at first sight of him, the deputy merely added another to the morning's list of surprises. This one took the form of a cheerfully waved greeting, as from friend to friend. By no stretch of the imagination could it have been expected from an officer sighting a prisoner who had just broken out of jail. Seymour advanced, puzzled and on guard.

"You're out early this morning, stranger," Hardley shrilled when the paces that separated them were few. "Just been up to your room looking for you but heard no 'Come in'."

The sergeant studied the man a moment, then replied: "Sorry I was out. What can I do for you, now that you've found me?"

"I noticed yesterday that you have a come-hither eye," went on the deputy in a lower voice. "I've got a hunch them murdering stage robbers are camped in a canon south of town a-ways. Thought you might like a little trouble as one of my official posse. No danger to speak of, for I'll be leading you and we'll all be armed to the shoulder-blades. Better come if you've got the time to spare."

That Hardley did not know Seymour had spent the night in jail seemed indubitable. The mounted officer could not explain it. Too much to blame upon the brandy this seemed, for the deputy had been absolutely sober in Brewster's room. But explanations could wait. Here was a chance to be about his police business without disclosing that he had any.

At once Seymour expressed his regret. He honestly had no time to spare. Hardley could understand how anxious he was to get to the creeks and locate something for himself. The deputy should have no trouble recruiting enough men citizens who knew the country better than any stranger could and who already had staked their claims. He was for the law every time—Seymour was, but he'd appreciate being excused from service this once.

"Sure, I understand, friend," agreed the deputy. "Be on your way and the best of luck to you. My downriver hunch may be all wrong, so keep your eyes peeled for a horse that's shod in front and plain behind. The rider of him is the killer of Sergeant Seymour, or I'm a liar and as a deputy sheriff, not worth the powder to blow me to blazes!"

Half an hour later, a horse that was shod before and plain behind traveled north out of Gold. His rider was Sergeant Seymour himself, not his killer.

CHAPTER XXI,
The Closed Creek

By noon, Seymour had his A-tent pitched on the bank of the Cheena, between the trail and the stream, a few rods below the point where Glacier Creek made its indigo-colored contribution. Above the scrubby timber spiralled the smoke of the hidden mission, to which the officer proposed to pay a neighborly call when he had finished the meal of bacon and beans which he was preparing.

Yesterday, O'Malley and his niece had made it plain that they wished a conference with him to be secret and under cover of night. His unexplained capture had made that impossible. Whether or not their caution was well founded, he was unwilling to await the fall of another night. He would need to make camp somewhere and felt it might better be near enough to excuse an open call. Hence he had pitched his tent here.

But Seymour had done more that morning than ride out from Gold five muddy miles and make camp. His years of detachment service had made him something of a jack-of-all-trades, and his cayuse-packed outfit was comprehensive. Kew, grazing on the lush grass of the meadow, now was as neatly shod as he could have been at the hand of any blacksmith. No longer was the animal a fit subject for Deputy Hardley's suspicions.

The sergeant had scoured his tin dishes in the river bank sand and was returning to the tent when he saw a horseman observing him from the main trail. The man stared a moment longer, then rode toward him. Soon, Seymour recognized him and wondered at such curiosity from a man of affairs.

"You're my first visitor, Brewster!" he called as the cordial freighter drew near. "Welcome to camp. If you'd been fifteen minutes earlier, I'd have fed you. Now, if you're hungry, over there's the grub box." The visitor's response was oddly halting, as if he was finding it difficult to believe his eyes.

"To my best knowledge and belief, I'm no one else."

Brewster laughed and swung into a chatting position by hooking one leg over the horn of his saddle. "And here I was hot-footing into town to get you out of jail."

"Kind of you, but apparently unnecessary," Seymour offered a laugh of his own. "Where did you get the idea I was in limbo?"

The sergeant did not need to feign his look of mystification. That the news of an arrest that Hardley himself did not remember had traveled to the creeks to be heard by Brewster served only to deepen the puzzle.

"Did Hardley mention jail to you?" he asked. "He didn't to me, and I saw him just before I left town."

"It wasn't Hardley—haven't seen him since he left my room last evening. But Cato said Hardley had pinched you and locked you up. He declared he had helped in the capture and was pleased with himself."

At mention of Cato, the sergeant was suddenly in the clear, although not so much as an eyelash flicker betrayed the fact. He recalled now the inordinately long arms of the man. Doubtless these had puckered the blanket around his midriff and beaten him into unconsciousness. The lovelorn old codger, fired with jealousy, must have been stalking the widow's place, mistaken him for a rival and acted under the dictates of his brandy-befuddled brain. That he had forgotten to confide the fact of imprisonment to Hardley was evident; but then, he had neglected to lock the jail.

How the ox driver had got possession of the key was a detail unexplained, but Seymour would never be sufficiently curious about that to inquire into it. To have been taken single-handed by Cato was not particularly flattering, even though the gnome was possessed of superhuman strength.

"Wasn't Cato hitting the hootch yesterday?" was all he asked of the driver's employer.

"He was that," admitted Brewster, "and he had a hang-over this morning. But how he ever imagined—"

Oh, well, there's no harm done, long as it was only a drunken dream. I was afraid Hardley would lose another day getting after the Seymour murderers and I didn't want to see you suffer from his foolishness. But you've picked a queer place to camp, strikes me. Didn't you know that Glacier Creek is closed?"

The sergeant had not heard this and was curious to know how any creek could be "closed." Brewster told him. The genial old missionary, Shan O'Malley, had laid the foundation for the situation in the early days of the rush. With more foresight than many laymen, he had seen what was coming. To hold the Indians of his congregation, or whatever he called it, and to keep them from contact with the white "rushers" as far as possible, he had induced them to claim, stake and register every foot of bar and bench from the canon entrance back to the glacier. To make a close corporation of it, he and his niece Ruth had staked the two full claims between the canon gate and the Cheena. Glacier Creek had not proved a bonanza, but O'Malley did not seem to care, the laziest Siwash could pan out a living, and the old man was keeping his flock together.

Then along came Bonnemort and Kluger, a shrewd pair from somewhere back in Eastern Canada. They saw a chance of operating the Glacier Creek diggings on a large scale. The Bonnemort of the combination admitted to being a half-breed, and he knew how to handle the Siwash. Before the missionary knew what was up, the pair had leased every Indian claim beyond the canon gate. Moreover—and Brewster was forced to smile appreciatively as he told it—they had hired the Indians to work their own claims. When all was set, they posted a "No Trespass" sign and stationed an armed guard at the narrow entrance. When this sentry turned back the sky-pilot intent on visiting his flock, the whole district had learned of the coup.

Brewster said he had been right friendly with Ruth Duperow and her uncle at that time. Because of their fears that the Siwash were being robbed, he had brought Sam Hardley to investigate. The B. & K. outfit had produced their leases and the Indians denied that they were being worked against their will. As no established trail ran up the creek, which was a veritable cul-de-sac because of its glacier source, Hardley had decided that the leases were within their rights and that there wasn't a thing to be done about it. The creek was still closed, and because there was

Moslems Worry Over
High Burial CostsMotor Transport Company in Persia
Charges Excessive Rate

The bones of pious Shia Moslems, whose relatives can afford to pay the price, are now transported part of the way by automobiles from Teheran, the Persian capital, to Kerbelah in Mesopotamia, where every good Shia wishes his bones to rest.

A local motor transport company recently extended its service between Beirut and Bagdad as far as Teheran. The conveying of bodies of Persians from the capital to Bagdad for railway transport to Kerbelah, about 60 miles from Bagdad, is a profitable side line in the company's business.

High cost of burial in Kerbelah is beginning to worry faithful Persians. In addition to paying the mullahs, who extract enormous fees for the burial, they have to bear the transportation cost of about $1,000. The latter charge is said to be trifling compared with the fees exacted for a good burial site at Kerbelah.

Ostrich Races in Germany

Birds Were Harnessed to Pneumatic
Tired Bamboo Sulkies

Races between ostriches, said to be the first of the kind ever held in Europe, were run near Berlin a few weeks ago. The ostriches were harnessed to bamboo sulkies equipped with pneumatic tires. Each driver carried a light stick with which he touched the bird occasionally to prevent it from following its usual zigzag course. The distances covered were from a mile to a mile and a half. Nino, a grey-headed four-year-old, won the first European championship.

LITTLE HELPS FOR THIS WEEK

Not as I wilt, but as Thou wilt.—Matt. xxvi, 39.

"Not as I will"; the sound grown sweet.

Each time my lips the words repeat. "Not as I will"; the darkness feels more safe than light when this thought steals.

Like whispered voice to calm and bless All unrest and all loneliness.

"Not as I will," because the One Who loved us first and best has gone Before us on the road, and still For us must all His love fulfill.

Resignation to the will of God is the whole of piety; it includes in it all that is good, and is a source of the most settled quiet and composure of mind. It is a temper particularly suited to our mortal condition, and what we should endeavor after for our own sakes in our passage through such a world as this, where there is nothing upon which we can rest or depend.—Bishop Butler.

Adopting business methods in charity work was lauded by President Coolidge, in a talk over the radio to a meeting in New York of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropic Societies.

Spread of the "community chest" system of financing benevolences, philanthropies and charities, Mr. Coolidge said, has not only eliminated the "waste of indiscriminate charity," but has accomplished much in the service of organizing these works of human helpfulness.

GUARD THE CHILDREN
FROM AUTUMN COLDS

The Fall is the most severe season of the year for colds—one day is warm, the next cold and wet, and unless the mother is on her guard, the little ones are seized with colds that may hang on all winter. Baby's Own Tablets are mother's best friend in preventing or banishing colds. They act as a gentle laxative, keeping the bowels and stomach free and sweet. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent colds, or if it does come on suddenly their prompt use will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cts. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EASILY FATIGUED AND DESPONDENT

A Condition Known as General Debility Due to Watery Blood

General debility is a term used to describe a weak and run-down condition of the system. Debility may come from a number of causes. The after effects of acute illness, lack of nourishment due to poor digestion, overwork or worry, or anything that makes the blood thin, thereby preventing it from carrying nourishment and health to the tissues of the body. The symptoms of debility vary, but weakness is always present, often a tendency to be easily fatigued, spots passing before the eyes, weak back, dizziness, wakefulness caused by inability to stop thinking, and unrefreshing sleep.

Mr. Lorenzo L. Gamache, Rockland, Ont., was a severe sufferer from this trouble and tells how he found release. He says:—"Two years ago I was in that condition which medical men call general debility. I made periodical visits to Montreal for fourteen months to undergo electric treatment. At the end of this time I was feeling well and thought with proper care I would continue in good health. But in the course of a month or so the symptoms came back more acute than ever. I lost appetite and could hardly sleep during the night, and what sleep I had was disturbed with nightmares. I had headaches and the least effort was telling on my nerves. I always felt pains somewhere, and had to lose much time. After suffering for three months, trying various things without good results, I was terribly depressed and disheartened. One day I met a friend who noted how pale and thin I was and he so strongly recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, that I determined to give them a fair trial. I got six boxes and began the treatment at once. After I had taken four boxes I began to notice an improvement in my health. I could sleep better, and I scarcely had a headache. Since that time my health has been steadily improving and now I feel just as well as ever. I have gained twenty pounds since I began the treatment. Now I would not be without Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the home, and strongly recommend them to all who suffer from a depressed system and the aches that follow."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cts. a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Big Feature of Sheep and Swine Sales in Manitoba

Long distance buying by farmers promises to be one of the big features of future sheep and swine sales in Manitoba. At the Brandon sale arrangements were made to care for the wants of farmers unable to attend the sale in the city. ## Weekly Newspaper Men Meet

Eighth Annual Convention of the Saskatchewan Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association

Readily conceded to be the best attended and most successful gathering in every way, the eighth annual convention of the Saskatchewan Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association was held in Regina on Thursday and Friday, October 24 and 25. Over one hundred delegates were registered, many of whom had not previously attended the annual convention. After a brief business session the delegates and ladies of the party were given a drive around the city by members of the Board of Trade, after which the party assembled at the Parliament Buildings where they were tendered a luncheon by the Government of Saskatchewan. Premier Dunning made a fitting address, which was responded to by James Macdonald, President of the Association. After the luncheon the party posed for a group photo taken on the steps before the main entrance to the buildings.

In the afternoon, Mayor Burton officially welcomed the members assembled in the City Hall. S. J. Dornan, the energetic secretary-treasurer, read the minutes of the last meeting, and his report on the year's business of the association reflected the activity of his labors, as the finances were shown to be in excellent condition. The membership paid up was shown to be 114 out of a total of 160 possible members.

On Thursday evening, the delegates and their friends were the guests of the Toronto Type Foundry Co., at a theatre party. Friday morning was devoted to a business session, and at noon on Friday, a luncheon was tendered by the Saskatchewan Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited. W. A. McLeod acted in the capacity of toast master, and speeches were given by A. J. McPhail, President of the Wheat Producers, Geo. W. Robertson, Secretary, as well as Jas. Macdonald, President of the Newspaper Association, and S. N. Wynn, of Yorkton.

Interesting and helpful discussions occupied the attention of the convention at the Friday afternoon session, and in the evening the members attended a banquet in the Kitchener Hotel tendered by the Leader Publishing Company. W. A. McLeod was toast master, and speeches were given by Premier Dunning, Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, Burford Hooke, Hon. S. J. Latta, Jas. Macdonald, C. R. McIntosh, F. E. Troutman, H. G. Sheldrake and Chas. Hynds.

At the closing session held in the City Hall on Friday afternoon, Hon. S. J. Latta, Minister of Education, was re-elected Honorary President; Jas. Macdonald, Unity Courier, was re-elected President; H. J. Halliwell, Estevan Progress, Vice-President; S. J. Dornan, Alameda Dispatch, Secretary-Treasurer. Executive officers were elected as follows: S. N. Wynn, Yorkton Enterprise; C. R. McIntosh, Battleford News; G. C. Buchanan, Weyburn Herald; E. Garrett, Watrous Signal; F. W. G. Sargent, Kamsack Times; and T. E. Seriver, Wolseley News.

It was decided to return to Regina for the ninth annual gathering next year.

A cablegram from London, England, quotes an article in the Financial News dealing with the British Empire Exhibition. ## Scholarship Goes To Alberta Student

Profits Under Benefactions of W. C. Macdonald Reg'd. Inc., Montreal

Charles E. Yauch, from Olds, Alberta, has been chosen as Alberta's nominee for a $500 post-graduate scholarship in scientific agriculture, tenable at Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, and leading to the degree of M.Sc. This is one of ten scholarships annually donated by W. C. Macdonald Reg'd. Inc., tobacco manufacturers of Montreal. Under the terms of the gift, two of the scholarships go to nominees of Quebec Province, this being by reason of the bilingual situation there, and the remaining eight are for nominees from each of the other provinces.

The scholarships are donated in pursuance of the policy of the late Sir William Macdonald, founder of W. C. Macdonald Reg'd. Inc., who in his lifetime donated many millions of dollars to the advancement of scientific and technical agriculture. The late Sir William realized that if the Dominion's basic industry, agriculture, was to be developed properly and her natural resources properly managed, it was essential to develop competent agriculturists and competent practitioners in the various branches of the engineering profession. With this in mind he gave away millions. Some of his princely benefactions went to the establishment of the faculty of engineering at McGill University, some went to the establishment and maintenance of Macdonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, which is one of the finest institutions of its kind in the world. Some went to the Ontario Agricultural College.

Mr. Yauch, who represents Alberta in this year's list of scholarship winners, is a native of LaFayette, Indiana, where he was born in 1901. In 1909 his parents removed to a farm near Langdon, Alberta, and he attended public and high schools at Langdon, starting his course at the Claresholm School of Agriculture in 1919. He received his diploma there in 1921 and engaged in biological work at the school during the summer months. He entered the University in the fall, spending the summer of '22 and '23 on his parents' farm, now located at Olds. In 1924 was graduated with his B.S.A. and secured a position as an assistant in the soils laboratory at the University of Alberta. He is now specializing in entomology.

NOVEMBER 9

THE FEEDING OF THE FIVE THOUSAND

Golden Text: I am the bread of life. John 6:35.

Lesson: John 6:1-15.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 107:1-9.

The Text Explained and Illumined

The Compassion of Jesus, verse 1-4. After these things—a vague note of time (see The Historical Background)—Jesus crossed to the eastern side of the Sea of Galilee, and a great multitude followed on foot around the northern end of the lake, drawn by His power over disease. Sitting with His disciples on the mountainside Jesus saw the crowd approaching, augmented at this time by the people who were on their way to attend the Passover at Jerusalem, and, as Mark tells us, He had compassion upon the multitude. "The multitude is round about us still, and the people are in peril of fainting by the way. There is the multitude of misfortune, the children of disadvantage, who never seem to have come to their own. And there is the multitude of outcasts, the vast army of publicans and sinners. And there is the bewildering multitudes of Africa, and India, and China, and they have 'nothing to eat!' How do I regard them? Do I share the compassion of the Lord?—Do I exercise a sensitive and sanctified imagination, and enter somewhat into the pangs of their cravings? Or do I rather share the insensitiveness of the disciples, and favor sending them away to look after themselves?" (Jowett).

Silence That Is Not Golden

THE merchant who fails to "speak up" lets a lot of golden sales slip past his store. This lost business goes either to his competitor down street or by the mail order route to the big city stores.

People are often surprised to find that the goods they bought "unsight unseen" from a catalogue can be seen and examined in the local store!

Tell your buying public what you have. ADVERTISING in "The Didsbury Pioneer" will invite the whole community to your store. And—
